A life drawing marathon is an opportunity for a continuous period of study from a variety of models across 5 days. Poses suitable for fast gesture work will be included along with longer poses for more sustained drawings. The Crawford College of Art and Design provides ideal life room facilities, with spotlighting and full blackout. Easels, drawing boards and newsprint will be provided – participants should bring their own paper and drawing materials (water based/non-toxic only).

PLEASE NOTE: These sessions are designed for those with previous life drawing experience only. The sessions are untutored but will be supervised and facilitated by CCAD tutors – Megan Eustace and Helen Farrell- who will be available to give advice if requested.
