However, if you or your family have had a change in the meantime that is likely to be permanent, then your eligibility for the scheme may be assessed to reflect those changed circumstances.

For example, where a student's parent or guardian experiences a permanent change in income level (through reduction in working hours, unemployment, etc.) then they can apply to the CIT Access Service for their application form to be assessed on the basis of the current income level.

Evidence of this change in circumstances is required.
